

The actions taken by Sinclair Broadcasting, forcing their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary just days prior to our Presidential Elections Day is an unprecedented and severely dangerous threat to traditionally "balanced" broadcast journalism.

Such actions, contrary to the public interest, promulgated through the awesome power unleashed through media consolidations portend grave future threats to our democratic republic. In accord with it's government issued license to use our public airwaves, Sinclair assumed an obligation to serve the public interest. Is ours not a government of the people, for the people and by the peop[le? It is a betrayal of our constitutional roots when large corporations control our public airwaves.

Would you not agree that we, the people, have a right to expect that our FCC would strengthen regulations pertaining to media ownership; and certainly not erode them by inaction?

The FCC license renewal process needs to be reviewed, revised and rewritten in a manner which would preclude sole "information control" by the, (quite frankly un-American) Sinclair and Rupert media-magnates. Thank you. Robert H. Wagner
